WHY DID OTTO WANT AN HEIR?

BABIES VISIT HIS HOME, BUT THEY DON'T STAY -A WIFE'S EARNEST ENDEAVOR.

People living in the vicinity of Fort Hamilton have been much interested of late in some rumors that have been circulated regarding the adventures of Sergeant Grossman in search of an heir. The sergeant's first name is Otto, and he is said to belong to a prominen The sergrant's wife is a pleas German family. young woman, and it is asserted that in her anxiety please her husband she has attempted to paim off as her own, babies to which she had no real claim.

The first of these attempts was made a year and a half ago, and it was said that the child had been born walte the serceant was absent from Fort Hamilton for two weeks on special duty. The sergeant had had no warning of such an event, and he is said to have been completely of such an event, and a is said a surprised. The baby was afterward claimed, however, by James E. Savaçe, a New-York steamfiller, and returned to him after some proceedings in court. He said that his wife had disposed of the child without his consent to some one who called herself Mrs. Hart, and it appeared to that Mrs. Grossman had received letters addressed t Mrs. Hart.

The second child, which was born on July 22, also came during the sergeant's absence. On his return ht joy was slightly diminished when he heard the storie loy was slightly diminished when he heard the stories that were floating about. These stories are based on the statements of Mrs. Cropf, the wife of the barber at the fort. She is a midwife, and was called in to attend Mrs. Grossman, but she found that the baby had already been born. Mrs. McKay, Mrs. Grossman's mother, therefore signed the birth certificate, making her mark. Mrs. Cropf. says, however, that on examination, the found that the

A RAILROAD SUED FOR NEARLY A MILLION. st. Louis, Aug. 8 (Special).—Nine hundred thousand Collars damage is the modest amount asked for in the suit for violation of contract filed in the Circuit Court this morning by the Wiggins Ferry Company against the Chicago and Alton Railroad Company. The ferry company alleges that in 1864 it made a contract with rallway by which it gave the railway the use of a large tract of land in the east side for track and warehouse purposes, the consideration being $2,500 per annum; that it was agreeded that the Alton should always employ the ferry company to transfer across the river all passengers and property coming and going on the railroad and requiring transfer. The petition then recites that the Chicago and Aiton recognized itself bound by the agreement entered into by Alten and St. Louis up to March 31, 1870, paying upon suit the instalments falling due prior to June 8, 1872, together with infrequent payments sued for by the ferry company from time to time. The sum of $13,125, in the aggregate, is claimed as rent, instalments due from June 1, 1883, to August, 1888; besides which it is alleged the defendant has atterly falled to carry out its contract for giving transfer business to the ferry company. The value of this business with-beld is estimated at $1,000 per day from June 1, 1863.

KEELY READY TO SUBMIT TO THE COURT. Philadelphia, Aug. 8 (special).—Counsel for the Keely Motor Company to-day filed a bill setting forth that Mr. Keely had decided to obey the court, and would enter into an agreement with complainant, to the effect that he now consents that the decree of the court may be entered requiring him to perform the contracts entered into heretofore and held by the complainant, and that he will agree to impart to the officer of the court all the information that he himself possesses concerning the construction, principle and operation of his inventions. The defendant agrees to defra) the costs attending this course, and the further expenses attending the completion and patenting of his inventions. To this the complainant asks the court for the following relief: First-a declaration establishing their right to use any power discovered by the defendant, and hitherto unknown to mankind at large; ondly-the right to the use of machinery by which this power can be utilized when invented; thirdlythe right to have such machinery patented by the de-fendant; fourthly—that Eccly shall forthwith disclose the secret of his invention or discovery, and take the accessary immediate steps to obtain patents.

MAXWELL'S FATE TO BE DECIDED TO-DAY. * St. Louis, Aug. 8 (Special).—A ray of hope is piercing the gloom that surrounds Maxwell. His atforneys, reinforced by A. J. P. Garesche, of this city, submitted their last papers and made their last appeal to the Governor this afternoon. Allidavits from J. G. Tevis and John Diepenbrode, of St. Louis, were submitted, which set forth that Juror Calaban expressed himself as satisfied of Maxwell's guilt before the prisoner was tried. Mr. Martin read a long review of the case, in which he criticised the long review of the case, in which he chacked the Governor aeverely. His remarks finally became so offensive that the Governor refused to listen to them, and a warm dialogue followed. The Governor said, he would give his decision in the morning. Governor Morehouse received a letter a few days ago from Juror Hendricks, who is now working in one of the Departments at Washington, in which that Juror recommends a respite. There is a growing impression that another respite will be granted.

ENTHUSIASM AT CORNING.

TWO STRONG SPEECHES ON THE TARIFF. SENATOR MILLER AND W. F. M'NAMARA UPON THE COURSE AND EFFECT OF FREE TRADE. STRONG WORDS FOR PROTECTION.

SENATOR MILLER AND W. F. M'NAMARA AD-

DRESS A STEUBEN COUNTY AUDIENCE. Corning, N. Y., Aug. 8 (Special) .- Among the leading Democrats who have joined the Republican party in Steuben County is William F. McNamara, who in 1884 stumped the State for Cleveland, and who, a year was the Democratic candidate for Assemblyman in this county. To-night a joint meeting of the Re publicans and the Democrats who have joined the Republican party was held in Harvard Academy. There were 1,000 men present. Speeches were made ex-Senator Miller and W. F. McNamara. Many Democrats who have not yet left their party attended the meeting especially to listen to Mr. McNamara's Among the prominent Republicans present were Chester S. Cole, formerly chairman of the Republican State Committee; Assemblyman Acker, ex-Senator S. T. Hoyt and J. H. Parkhurst. Mr. McNamara, who was the first speaker, was received with tremendous applause. He said in "I am not nere to attack my former political asse claies, but to review the causes which have led me to decide to vote for Benjamin Harrison. (Applause.) say that beg leave to upon the platform of Protection. What is the corner-stone of the Republican platform It is that the industrious men of our country shall never be injured by foreign causes. intend to appeal to my fellow countrymen throughout this State to sustain this system What drove your and my parents from Ireland? 'Free trade' said a spectator. "Yes," answered Mr McNamara "It was free trade. It was England's policy to destroy the manufactures of Ireland. "We are continually hearing from Fuglish news papers praise of the Democratic platform. When I The London Times' assassinating the character of Parnell, and then praising Cleveland's free-trade policy, I made a solemn vow not to vote the Democrafic ticket. (Great applause.) Do you wonder gentlemen, that Irishmen are leaving the Democratic party and are joining the Republican party?

(Applause.)
Ex-Senator Warner Miller was then introduced, and was welcomed with lond and prolonged applause. Following is an extract from his speech:

Following is an extract from his speech:

This is a remarkable campaign. The people are thinking and debating as they have never done before in twenty years. Is there a man here who believes that Grover Cleveland could have been elected in 1854 if he had made such a declaration on the tariff as he made in his free-trade message of last Docember! But he has proved to be like ciar in the hands of Carlisle, Milis and the Breckinridges. Let us settle this question for a generation. I believe the voters of New-York are going to settle it so that no party will have the temerity to support a tariff for revenue only.

will have the temerity to support a tariff for revenue only.

The trouble new is that the South is mainly an agricultural people; it does not sympathize with the Northern manufacturing States. I believe the intelligent people of Corning understand how important a protective tariff is to the glassmakers of Corning. Go where you will in the State of New-York, you will find towns like Corning, which have been built up by the tariff. The cost of manufactured goods is from 20 to 25 per cent cheaper to-day, owing to protection. All this is threatened by a political party which is attempting to destroy the protective system. Mr. Mills proposed to reduce the duty on glass; the only effect of that action here will be to reduce wages. The President declares in favor of putting raw materials on the free list; but they do not touch iron or coal, because some rich Democrats have coal and from mines. Mr. Mills has protected the South; he has protected rice and sugar. Po not be deceived, my fellow-citizens. You may not have been touched by this tariff bill, but you will be by the next.

THE BRIGHT OUTLOOK IN INDIANA. GENERAL HARRISON'S PARTNER ON THE SITUA

TION-VIEWS OF JUDGE FAIRBANKS. Among the late arrivals uptown on Tuesday night

were W. H. Miller and Horace McKay, of Indianapoliwho are here to represent General Harrison. M Miller is the second member of the law firm of Harrison Miller & Elam, and Mr. McKay was a delegate to the Chicago Convention. Mr. Miller said that he left ceneral Harrison in good health and spirits. "Indiana is surely Republican," he said. "The young voters are coming with as. The soldier element is giving us great strength, and our growing manufacturing interests demand protection. The natural gas discoveries have created large manufacturing industries within two or three years."

Judge C. W. Fairbanks, the Indianapolis attorney who was prominently identified with the canvass for the nomination of Judge Gresham for President, in discussing the political situation in Indiana, said a There is much to be said in reference to our State.

but when everything is said it is my candid judgment that the Republicans have the best of the situation have become intremched behind the Federal power and patronage, but this has its disadvantages. There are more people who are angre over the distribution of natronage. informed of these facts, but he did not see any ground for people who are angry over the distribution of patronage for Vice-President, because of a Democratic local quarrel, has burt the party in Indiana very much. Our canvass is materially strengthened at the outset by the State pride which we all take in General Harrison, and by the general rally of his old soldier com-rades to his banner. The tariff question operates both ways with us, as it does everywhere else, but the general round-up seems to show greater accessions to our party than losses. So, on the whole, I think we shall carry the State, and this judgment of mine is given deliberately and coolly. If a Republican and given deliberately and coolly. If a Republican and Democrat should make an even bet on the State, I should say the chances were a little the best for the Republican. Of course, in a State like Indiana, where the margin of difference in 500,000 or 600,000 voters s only 5,000 or 6,000, only a close personal and ndividual canvass can show the actual situation.

individual canvass can show the actual situation. but there are drifts and tendencies either way, and when these have been summed up the advantages scent positively in favor of the Republican party."

"What about the Governorship!"

"Well Governor Porter has declined to be a candidate. Ite states his reasons in his letter, and they are undisabledly the real reasons. He says that in December last he declined to be a candidate, and that other gentlemen who were his friends thereupon came into the field for the nomination, and he cannot now, in honor, accept it. He is in much the same position that Mr. Blaine was in at Chicago. I think Governor Porter would have been the best man to run."

General Dan Macauley, who was at one time Mayor of Indianapolis, later the proprietor of the Gedney House in this city, and now engaged in electric enterprises, has a cool judgment about polities, which is evenly tempered by his wide acquaintanceship and ontact with men. He was asked yesterday about Indiana and replied:

"Why to tell you the downright truth, General Harrison is sure to carry it. Any Democratic talk about even a possibility of their carrying it is out of all keeping with their own claims. They always said that it was Hendricks who carried the State for them. With Hendricks dead and Harrison running they would be in a more logical position if they owned up the corn at once and admitted the hopelessness of the situation."

MR KERNAN ON HILL'S CHANCES DISCUSSING THE FEELING AGAINST THE GOVER-

NOR-A GOOD WORD FOR MR. FLOWER. Ex-Senator Kernan was among the few premin political leaders in town the other day. He es om Utica on business, not politics, he said, but for all that he did not hesitate to say a word about the outlook for his party in this State as well as in the country generally. He felt sure that Cleveland would win, but he did not seem to feel altogether certain that Hill would be renominated.

"The Governor is as strong as ever in the country, I think," he said, "but no one seems to know what this opposition to him in New-York City really amounts to or what is behind it all. Still, I feel the chances are in Hill's favor."

Mr. Kernan thought that Roswell P. Flower would be an excellent man for second place on the ticket. I was sorry when Flower declined the nomination for Lieutenant-Governor," he added. "It was a miscepted and got better acquainted with the people of the State. Then his advancement would have been easy. I think well of Mr. Flower and hope he will be prevailed upon to accept the Lieutenant-Governor-ship.³ take. I said so to his friends. He should have ac-

He has gone over to the Democrats. The Democrats will make a desperate effort to carry Michigan. They will open the cam paign by taking Thurman up to Port Huron on August 22. S. S. Joseph H. Manley, chairman of the State Republican Committee of Maine, is in town to see Mr. Blaine. GETTING THE BIG SPHERE READY. HOW THE HARRISON AND MORTON BALL IS PUT TOGETHER. At West-st. and West Eleventh-st. yesterday, several men were bosy getting ready the big Republican ball which is to be started rolling in the Blaine procession. It arrived by express in the morning from Cumber land, Md., where it was made. After it had been rolled through the streets of Cumberland and christened it was taken to pieces and packed in sections for shipment. When it arrived at the woodyard of Clark & Wilhens, in West-st., David E. Brockett, the man who built it, and A. H. Dowden, who has charge of it, were on hand to put it together. The sections were in two mispheres, with a mass of red, white and blue can vas, and a great number of braces and strips of iron. A heavy piece of three-inch pipe, nearly fifteen feet long, was first taken out to serve as the axle of the ball. On this was fastened a strong central when or run, fourteen feet high and forty-two feet in cir cumference. This wheel is what the great ball will rest upon in rolling, and it was the most difficult part of the construction. From the wheel to the outer edge of the iron axis long strips of iron were fastened. There were thirty-eight of them in all and they formed the ribs of the all, and were held firmly in position by stout iro braces. Within an hour or two after the great wheel had been put in position, the skeleton of the ball was in shape, giving it the appearance of a great spherical cage. this will be done the first thing this morning and will Applications have been made by various org tions to roll the ball, but it had not been decided last evening what place it will occupy in the processio The sides of the canvas are covered with to-day. inscriptions, and among them is this one;

MORE TO JOIN THE REPUBLICAN RANKS. There is yet another secession, and an important one, from the ranks of the Free Trade party, namely, the family of Dr. Winslow S. Pierce, of this city.

Shortly before his death, Mr. Pierce, who was an ar dent Democrat all his life, dissented from the plat form of that party, believing that there should h protection for American homes and industries. is stated by one well acquainted with the family that Henry D. Pierce, the eldest son, who is well known as a brilliant and able lawyer at Indianapolis, has expressed his intention of voting for protection. Pierce, who read law in the office of Vice-President Hendricks, is an ex-Assistant District Attorney and was formerly law partner of Senator Turple. In addition to opposing the Democratic ticket on account of its free-trade policy, Mr. Pierce is also strongly against the appointment of States' right judges to the Supreme Court. The other members of the family who are known to have declared similar intentions are John H. Pierce, of Chicago, and Winslow S. Pierce, of the law firm of Dillon & Swayne, of this city.

MASSACHUSETTS AGAINST THE MILLS BILL When ex-Congressman W. W. Crapo, of Massa chusetts, who is a member of the Republican National Committee, was in New-York the other day on a flying business trip, he said in answer to an inquiry about politics :

"The old Bay State is ready to give an old-time Republican majority. The manufacturers, the operatives, the skilled mechanics, the laboring men and the business men of Massachusetts are all agreed on this question of Protection. They are ready to vote down the Mills bill, and to vote the Republican party into power to give us fair legislation on that question. It is the common opinion with us that the Senate ought to prepare a bill as a substitute for the Mills bill. Our party is pledged to revision."

CRUISE OF THE NEW YORK YACHT CLUR

GATHERING OF SWIFT AND BEAUTIFUL CRAFT ON THE THAMES-TIPS ON THE GOELET

RACE [RY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE]

New-London, Aug. 8 .- The New-York Yacht Club cruise is on. The quiet surface of the limpid Thames is covered with a collection of machines for marin locomotion varying in style of architecture from the most primit ve to the most involved. The same surface is also covered with a wet blanket layer of heavy, thick white fog which promises to crystallize and turn into snow before morning, if the temperature can be trusted.

At 10 o'clock this morning the waters about the

New-York Yacht Club float at the foot of East Twenty-sixth-st. swarmed with the club's steam yachts and one or two salling vessels. These were in the slip: the Till'e, Electra, Puzzle, Sapphire and Corsa'r, all being prepared for the two weeks' trip. The remarkable little launch Henrietta, which many think to be the fastest in the waters, was also there Commodore Gerry's nanhtha launch rushed back and forth between the float and the flagship and conveyed aboard the Commodore's staff and others who will enjoy the Electra's proverbial hospitality during the cruise. Fleet Captain Gouverneur Kortright was one of the first to arrive and Fleet Surgeon Morris B. Asch followed him closely. Before the appointed time for departure, 10 o'clock, Secretary Bird, of the club; Treasurer F. W. J. Hurst, and Captain Stephen Peabody, of the Regatta Committee appeared and were made at home by the Commodore. At exactly five minutes after 10 o'clock the boatswain of the Electra piped the erew to man the capstan. Anchor was weighed, the main brace spliced and the flagship stood up the East River, bound for the rendezvous at this The weather at the time consisted of a clear sky.

a refreshing breeze, and the brightest of sunlight. The meteorological condition was fitful, however, and clouds loomed up more and more, until Commo dore Gerry's reputation as a good weather mascot was endangered by a heavy fog, a drizzling and general gloom. J. Pierpont Morgan's Corsair, a steam yacht, followed the Electra and worked hard all day to overtake the fleet flagship. Success only followed her attempts when, late in the afternoon, the Electra broke one of the flanges of her screw and blew out a gasket in her steering gear. Disabled as she was the Commodore's yacht overtook and left behind the Oneida, owned by E. C. Benedict. The yacht passed on her way a number of salling craft which saluted the headquarters boat with the necessary respect. Cannonading was the order of the day, and culminat n a grand burst of marine artillery salvos when New-London harbor was reached at 5 o'clock. A perfec maze of graceful spars had to be passed the and hundreds of guns greeted the arrival of the Flectra. Then, at once, naphtha launches began to sputter about the Thames and exchange of greeting between the various yachtsmen followed, naturally These yachts were then in the harbor: SCHOONERS.

After a long debate it was decided to accept the invitation of the Eastern Yacht Club to participate in the regarda at Marblehead. This decision, however, is subject to change if the weather turns out unfavorable. In the latter case the cruise will practically end at Vineyard Haven where the fleet goes after leaving Newport. Several minor ports may be visited after Martha's Vineyard, but the programme is undecided. The first matter taken up at the meeting was the Goelet race. It was decided that the race should take place the day after the arrival at Newport. The time of the departure from this port was left to the Commodore.

There is a split between the Police Justices and the numissioners of Charities and Corrections over the reent order of the latter that no prisoner shall be released hat such orders had been systematically forge said to be based on Section 308 of the Consolidation Act. The matter came to the attention of Jusice Weld through the refusal of a prison-keeper to release Lobert Young, whom he had sentenced to ten days' imprisonment for drunkenness. Young's wife pleaded with him, and the the man brought before him for re-examination, and he then promptly discharged him.
